Llansilin

Number 90 Summer 2015

COVER: Llansilin in former times by Clifford Milner

Dear parishioners,

For the first time for many years I have been conducting confirmation classes . . . which led me to wonder who had thought up this strange method of teaching called the Catechism. You can understand why it begins 'What is your name?' The vicar says 'Name this child' when the baby is brought to the font. 'Peter Henry Jones,' a godparent said on television the other day. Wrong. His christian names are 'Peter Henry'. Jones is the tribal name. So the poor baby ended up Peter Henry Jones Jones.

But how does the Catechism reply to the question 'What is your name?' The answer is bizarre, 'N or M'. Generations of confirmation candidates have been taught this because the printer had a liquid lunch! He should have printed 'N or N N' depending on whether the baby was 'Peter' (N) or 'Peter Henry' (N N). But after a couple of tankards at the Printers' Arms he conflated the N N to make an M. It puzzled me when I was confirmed.

But how did the Catechism come about? When, in the sixteenth century, more than half the Christians of Europe broke away from the hegemony of Rome, where could they turn if they could not rely on the authority of the Pope? They turned to the Bible and to the early Church. There they found one masterpiece, St Cyril of Jerusalem's Catechetical Lectures, delivered towards the end of the fourth century.

It led to the catechisms of the sixteenth century. Martin Luther's Small Catechism appeared in 1529, John Calvin's Genevan Catechism in 1541. In 1549 a Catechism was included in the first Book of Common Prayer. 'What we set before you,'wrote Calvin in the preface to his Genevan Catechism, 'is what was used in ancient times before the devil ruined the church'.

He was only partly right. St Cyril's Catechetical Lectures were composed for the schooling of adults. Baptism took place when they were sufficiently prepared. But infant baptism was the norm in the sixteenth century so that catechisms were directed towards the Christian education of the young. Their godparents had made solemn promises on their behalf. The young must adopt the baptismal vows for themselves.

So? The lessons took the form of question and answer. And, in an age of widespread illiteracy they must memorise the Creed, the Lord's Prayer and the Ten Commandments so 'none hereafter shall be confirmed, but such as can say in theyr mother tong, the Articles of the Faith . . .'.

Eight young people and three adults are presented for Confirmation this year from the parish of Llansilin. The world has changed. They can read and write. Nor do I think Christianity can be taught. But they might be inspired by the age-old faith and venerable Church of St Silin which we all inherit.

May God bless you,

Rev Richard Hughes

Garden opens to help our shop and victims of Nepal earthquake

To support the Llansilin Community Shop Jill Avery invites you to visit her garden on Saturday 4th July 2015 between 1.00 pm and 3.45 pm. Entry to the garden is free but any donations will be in aid of the shop.

The shop will be open and raffle tickets sold from 1.00pm until 4.00pm . Refreshments will be served at the Shop and the raffle will be drawn at 4.00pm.

Proceeds of the raffle will be divided equally between the shop and the earthquake victims in Nepal Check village notice boards for full details nearer 4th July.

Huge scale of solar park is revealed

The proposed 'solar park' in Llansilin would consist of 19,000 (nineteen thousand) solar panels, according to the project's developer.

At a consultation in the village Kronos Solar revealed that the installation would cover more than 22 acres of land close to School Road on the edge of the village. While it would provide no jobs the German developer claimed that there would be financial benefits for Llansilin. A small percentage of the profits might be given to the village and there would be a one-off grant which could cover a project such as improving the school building or providing solar panels for a community building.

A preliminary survey showed that the site would be visible from nearly a third of the valley, though it is claimed that high hedges would hide the 7ft 6in high panels from the road and much of the village.

When challenged to justify building the solar installation in the middle of open countryside instead of using motorway verges, as in Germany, or on factory and supermarket roofs, Kronos said that regulations and the difficulties of financing such developments left them with little option other than greenfield sites.

Powys County Council has told Kronos that it believes a full environmental impact assessment will be required as part of the procedure for gaining planning consent. The panels would have a working life of 20 years and there would be strict legal requirements for the company, or its successor, to decommission the site at the end of that period and restore it to its original condition as grazing land.

In its unitary development plan* the county council lays down the guidelines for all development in the county and there is considerable emphasis on the quality of the landscape. The plan says; "Powys has a landscape of consistently high quality throughout its area. This is one of our main assets and it is the basis of one of our other main employment sectors, tourism."

It goes on to say that "in order to safeguard the natural heritage of Powys, development proposals will be expected to take account of the need to protect, conserve and wherever possible enhance sites and features of importance for their aesthetic, amenity, biodiversity, ecological, geological, nature conservation, physio-graphical and scientific value."

While solar installations are not specifically mentioned the plan says; "Proposals for energy generation from renewable sources will be approved providing that they meet the landscape, environmental, amenity and other requirements set out in this plan."

Among the requirements are that: "Proposals for the development and use of land should take account of the high quality of the landscape throughout Powys and be appropriate and sensitive to the character and surrounding landscape."

Developments must also "contain appropriate measures to ensure satisfactory integration into the landscape." How 19,000 panels will be integrated into the landscape is doubtless something that will exercise everybody's imagination.

The full plan can be found on the Powys County Council website at www.powys.gov.uk/fileadmin/Docs/Planning/Written_statement_final_web_en_05.pdf*

Ron and Rosie's golden memories

Fifty years ago a young RAF sergeant and his sweetheart married in St Silin's church (pictured). Now Ronald and Rosie Pountain have celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home in Norfolk.

Both are natives of Llansilin; Rosie is the daughter of Edward Hughes of Brynaber, a joiner, carpenter, coffin maker and undertaker; Bell Hughes was her brother, and both men were vergers at St Silin's for many years. Ronald's grandfather was William Jones of Wenffrwd, who was the village blacksmith, a JP and pillar of Stent Chapel.

Congratulations to Ronald and Rosie from all their friends in Llansilin – we look forward to comemorating their diamond anniversary.

Llansilin in the national archive

Thanks to Chris Burton Llansilin will have a permanent place in history through the national archive. Chris manages the website of the Deanery of Mathraval which includes Llansilin. The site has been cjosen by the National Library of Wales to be included in the national archive because of its quality as representative of the activities of the Church in Wales. The site will be downloaded and stored at regular intervals.

Church news

Are you going to Strawberry Fair?

The must-go-to event of the summer is the Strawberry Tea garden party at Glascoed. This is very much a family event with games and sideshows for the children as well as tea, cakes and, of course, strawberries and cream. It is on 13th June from 3-5pm and admission is £5, children under 16 are free. Many thanks to Ben Howard-Baker for hosting the event

NEVER TOO MANY COOKS

There are quite a few events at St Silin's where we provide refreshments – usually tea or squash, sandwiches and cakes. The burden always seems to fall on the same small group, so if you think you could help please contact the vicar or speak to one of the churchwardens.

ONE MAN WENT TO MOW

And luckily he found several others busy at the same job, but maintaining the churchyard, keeping it tidy and mown, is a heavy task in the summer months and help is always needed. Turn up at 6 o'clock on any Thursday evening with your strimmer of mower and you will be doing a great service to the village. It's quite a convivial evening too.

FRIENDLY RECEPTION

Friends of Llansilin Church is a group entirely separate from the ecclesiastical side and devoted to raising funds for the upkeep of this historic and beautiful building. The group is making the necessary applications to become a registered charity and will officially launch later in the year. An arts festival in September is among the first events being planned.

NO NEED TO KNEEL

People taking communion often find it difficult to kneel either through a temporary injury or long-term condition. The vicar has said that if you do experience difficulty kneeling it is perfectly acceptable to take communion standing.

KIT HITS A HALF-CENTURY

On Sunday 14th June at Llangedwyn, our former vicar, the Reverend Kit Carter (right), will be celebrating the Eucharist in thanksgiving for the fiftieth anniversary of his ordination. I'm sure people will want to know and will join him and the congregation at Llangedwyn for this memorable service..

FIRST COMMUNION AT LLANSILIN

Our confirmation candidates took their first communion when they were confirmed at St Myllin's in May, however, they are invited to make a special occasion of the Holy Communion at St Silin's at 10.30 a.m. on Sunday 7th June when they and their families will receive communion together for the first time in their own parish church.

SWEET SINGING BY THE CHOIRS

The visit by the Fron Male Voice Choir was a huge success, raising valuable funds for the church to meet its heavy financial commitments. In June another choir will be visiting us – not so well-known but equally well worth listening to. The Cantiones Choir will be singing at St Silin's on 20th June. Tickets are £7 including refreshments. Those who heard the choir last year will know they are not to be missed.

BANK HOLIDAY CELEBRATES ANNIVERSARIES

A fascinating programme of events, including a Mad Hatter's tea party has been organised for the August Bank Holiday. You can find full details on page 13.

From singing to salmon, via clogs and birds

New arrivals
We welcomed two new pupils into school after our Easter break- Isaac Miller and Daniel Morris both join us in our Foundation Class

Pupils dipping in the River Cynllaith

Fund Raising: We held a successful school Eisteddfod in March, followed by a fundraising cake stall, raising money for the Cerebral Palsy charity Bake for Bobath. Thanks to the generosity of the parents and guests we managed to raise £110.25. After the terrible earthquake disaster in Nepal, our Year 5 pupil Emily Morris asked if there was some way we could help raise money for the appeal, it was decided that an extra Own Clothes Day be held - we were delighted to be able to donate a very generous £99.56 to appeal funds - well done Emily for your very thoughtful suggestion.

Clog dancing: The children are currently part way through a five-week course of Welsh Clog Dancing (Dawnsio Gwerin) and are having a great time, many thanks to Bryn and Rhian for providing this opportunity.

RSPB: Pupils had a very informative and fun visit from Jan Evans of Lake Vyrnwy. Jan came into school to discuss farming the Lake Vyrnwy estate in an environmental and sustainable way…. quad bikes, sheep and sheep dogs- a number of our pupils were hooked!

Koinobori (Japanese Children's Day): We were joined in school by Dewi Morris who provided a varied agenda for the children to enjoy, helped by Jeffrey Olstead and Lisa Barlow from the Severn River Trust the whole school spent the morning down by the river, enjoying looking at what was in the river,-they found a tiny salmon and everyone thought that the river was looking very healthy.

The afternoon was spent designing and painting Japanese flags and also having a go at trying to "cast" with Jeffrey's fishing rod. The highlight of the day was a demonstration from Jeffrey on how to make a fly for fishing - he had the children captivated - we've never seen them so quiet!

Stay Active: We are currently collecting Sainsbury's Active Kids vouchers and continue to collect used postage stamps, old mobile phones and used ink cartridges.

CHAPEL NEWS

Gweinidogaeth Bro

Hyfryd i'w gweld yr wŷn bach yn prancio hyd y caeau, ac mae'r wenoliaid wedi cyrraedd, arwydd bod y gwanwyn yma ac nid yw'r haf yn bell.

Eleni roedd gwasanaeth Dydd Gweddi Byd-Eang y Chwiorydd wedi cael ei gynllunio gan ferched y Bahamas. Teitl y gwasanaeth oedd - Dywedodd yr Iesu wrthynt:"A ydych yn deall beth yr wyf wedi ei wneud i chwi?" Gwasanaeth oedd yn un benithiol iawn.

Yng nghinio Gwyl Ddewi, Y Parch Robert Wyn Jones oedd y gŵr gwadd a pharti "Llond Llaw" o ardal Pontrobert oedd yn diddanu. Noson wrth fodd pawb.

Does dim llawer o sôn am e-bola nawr ond mae dal yn broblem mewn mannau o Affrica. Mae un o'n haelodau, Marian Leatham, merch Iola Evans, yn Sierra Leone ar hyn o bryd yn gweithiofel nyrs gyda'r cleifion yno. Mae i'w hedmygu yn fawr.

Mae'r flwyddyn yn prysur mynd yn ei blaen ac fe fydd y diwrnod hiraf wedi mynd heibio cyn i'r rhifyn nesaf ddod allan.

It's wonderful to see the lambs prancing about the fields and the swallows have arrived, a sign that spring is here and that summer is not far away.

This year the Women's World-Wide Day of Prayer service was put together by the ladies of the Bahamas. The title of the service was – Jesus said unto them "do you understand what I have done for you?" A service to lift one's spirit.

given by The Reverend Robert W Jones, the guest speaker. A party of ladies from Pontrobert called "Llond Llaw" were the entertainers. An enjoyable evening all round.

At the moment ebola seems to be out of the news, but it is still a problem in some parts of Africa. One of our members, Marian Leatham, Iola Evans' daughter, is at this moment nursing the infected over in Sierra Leone. She is very much to be admired.

The year is marching onwards and the longest day will have been and gone before the next number will be out.
